“ Bendicion Titi, I Love You - still haven't come to terms with the fact that I won't be able to say these words to you anymore... words aren't coming out only tears. I miss you! God give me the strength to keep the faith so one day I too can laugh and dance with my family! Please Lord watch over tio Richie and her children, as they try to navigate through this new reality..

“ I had been thinking of calling you lately and now I wish I had... You were an inspiration.. You and your family growing up you brought me in and accepted me for who I was no matter what stupid thing I did... I finally grew up and I wanted to let you know that I am ok.. Richie and Family you have my deepest heartfelt condolences

“ i am not sure where i am even supposed to start, growing up i wasn't around my grandparents much, or any of my dads side for that matter. and that had a big effect on my life because it led me to think or believe that it was because they didn't care or love me as much as they did everyone else. it was a bad feeling and i knew for the longest time i wanted to speak up but i couldn't, i couldn't until the day of my sweet 16. i did the 16 candles for important people and i dedicated a candle specifically to my grandmother mom mom and grandfather pop pop and was gonna use the opportunity to share my feelings and just let it out. i remember i spent the most time thinking about what i wanted to say because i knew that i loved them with everything in me, i knew i wanted to be close to them, and i knew i wanted to be there and show them that i did in fact appreciate them and their efforts to try and get me to come around more. i can't remember everything i said but as soon as i called them up i felt a lump in my throat because im not the best when it comes to talking but this was the way it needed to come out so they knew it was real. seconds into my paragraph for them i started crying and i couldn't even make words anymore and my grandma came up to me and gave me the biggest hug and told me that she never loved me any less, and that the distance meant nothing to her because i was still her baby. i remember every word she told me and every day i carry it in the back of my mind because she was the wisest woman ever. no matter how long it was since i last seen her every time i did she would always love me up and tell me how beautiful i was. every birthday she texted or called she never missed anything of mine. she was such an amazing woman and in life you make so so many mistakes and my biggest one was not telling her i loved her more often or going to see her because now i wish i could more than ever. i will forever cherish our conversations and the advice she gave me and i will make things right with my family here with me and we will make her so proud. i genuinely hope right now she's with her family telling them everything she's needed to for the past years and is happy and at peace. i pray that she watches over us too especially her husband and kids. we love you so so much mom mom. my beautiful influencer 😭😭😭👍. oh

“ You took a part of me away. Know that I will never be the same. God designed it for us to meet. He knew I needed you in my life. You have helped me through many storms in my adult life. Who do I have now? Four Chambers to the heart but you took one away when you departed my life. My heart is not operating at it's full capacity because of this. I'm lost. I miss you dearly and I will always love you forever 🌹🌸

“ I was going to speak Monday but me and public speaking don't mix well. I do well with my words so I rather write what I want to say. Let me start by saying I miss you BEYOND words can explain, so far in these almost 22 years I have been here I have never experienced a pain so deep and yes there is yet to come but I know this will always hurt forever. In this life people want the same thing money and fine things. Mom and dad met and their love made our parents and our parents made us, they built our foundation. We are rich in life forever because of the love you have put in our lives and instilled in our hearts, no money can ever be worth what we all have together. You and me have had so many conversations I have never told nobody, you have held me through a lot of dark moments. A lot of them I kept away for and I had them a lot so I am sorry mom, and I never had to apologize because you understood me so well you were such an understanding person so forgiving so beautiful. I wish I can put into words how much you mean to my heart and my soul mommy, how much this life means to me because of you and my dad. I was so blessed to have grandparents like you guys. To receive the love that more than most of this world can ever say they experienced. I am beyond blessed to have even known you mom and experience you, and even MORE to be your granddaughter. You never hurt me mom, you never failed me, you always hugged me, you always kissed me, told me I smelled good. So many things I can say, but overall a thank you mom. I know your kids are going to be hurt and dad, the kids are too young right now but I got us mom I promise you. When people have passed I have said I hope I see them again, but mom I WILL see you again. When god permits me to beautiful, but till then ma I love you to heaven and back I'll always keep you in my heart my beautiful angel.

“ Not gonna get on here and say to much because you know how much I cared for you, I love you a lot but I'm glad your finally in a peaceful place, very strong woman always tried her best, very great mother to all 4 kids and a great mother to her grandchildren, even though she couldn't do as much she still pushed herself to make sure everyone else was smiling and laughing when she was at her lowest. but besides that I love you a lot mom, I miss you a lot, really my dawggg ❤️.

“ Everytime I went to visit you titi ,or you came to see me ,you were always helping me get through my sadness about my father, you would share his memories with me and everytime I was with you, you always made me know how beautiful I was, when I was insecure about myself titi you don't understand how much you made me feel better, when I was younger and I was not doing good, titi you came and picked me up and brought me to your home and you took care of me, sent me off to school blasting the one song that I can not say properly but you would be in the car singing and Dancing to it while taking me to school, but when it came out it was definitely your hit back in 2007, I remember when you came with the girls to my first apartment and titi you looked at me and said nu nu where is my coffee make me some coffee, i remember how good it felt when yall came to the house, or the times you came to Bethlehem and yall would chill with us just talking about every and anything, titi you told me how bad you wanted a sloth, because of you I love those little creatures, you helped me become the woman I am today, always showing your love, your care, when I was sad about dad you comforted me, and we would drink together and talk about memories of him, titi you caught my heart since I was little, i remember when you told me that no matter how much weight I have I'm very beautiful and thick is beautiful, you had a good response for people who felt so insecure about themselves, and you would make them feel better in those moments, i can never forget the hugs i got from you and the kisses, you had the most amazing smell, a smell i can never forget because it's always been that same wonderful smell, and each time I hug you it was so comfy, I also remember how good you were as a mom a grandparent, a aunt and a wife, I love you titi ❤️
