

Charles Edward Fell Jr.

March 22, 2020

Charles Edward Fell, Jr. 73, passed away March 22, 2020, in Allentown. PA. Charles was born in Perth Amboy, NJ and was the son of the late Charles Edward Fell, Sr. and the late Frances (Zimmerman) Fell. Charles spent his career working in quality assurance roles in the consumer goods and environmental industries and returned to college as an adult to earn an M.S. in Chemistry from Kean College in 1988.

He was the husband of the late Carol (Smith) Fell with whom he shared an interest in community service, having both been members of the Junior Chamber (Jaycees). Charles spent many years actively involved with Camp Jaycee, a special needs residential camp for adults, lending a hand in carpentry and other needed skills. As the father of two profoundly disabled children, this was a cause dear to his heart.

Charles was an avid sports enthusiast and rarely missed watching a Mets game, his favorite team. Though Charles suffered from Multiple Sclerosis, he continued to participate in activities at his residence at Good Shephard Raker Center, including the bowling team, drama performances, and outings to local sports events.

He is survived by daughters Dawn Fell, Deborah Benward, and Lori Hicks; son David Fell; sister Pat Price and grandchildren Josephine, Ashley, and Jake.

Services will be at the convenience of the family.
